

Lions Told About Encampment

John King told Hope Lions Club yesterday noon at its regular meeting at Town & Country about a recent trip members of the First Baptist Church Youth Choir made to Glorieta, New Mexico.

The report, along with slides, were more than passing interest since at least five Lions had sons and daughters that made the trip. Mrs. McDowell Turner, one of the chaperones, made the slides used in the presentation.

Glorieta Baptist Assembly is one of two encampments built and maintained by the Southern Baptist Convention, the other being located at Ridge Crest, N.C. These are week long sessions for all organizations of the Southern Baptist Convention. The Hope Baptist youths attended music week with some 2,500 others.

The encampment is a permanent structure with dining halls and dormitory space and apartments to take up to three or four thousand persons per week all summer.

There were 113 music instructors present and they taught everything from group singing to music theory and conducting. Three professors from Quachita University were instructors.

All class work is held in the morning and afternoons are open for trips to points of interest in Santa Fe and the Parks and Indian Reservations nearby. In addition to the talk and slide show Mr. King and Lion Lowell Harris sang a duet, the latter being program chairman for the meet.

Lion Bill Cross reported on the Little League State Tournament just completed here.

Angle Byrd of Kennedy, Texas was guest of Claude Byrd and Lioness Dora King was guest of Frank King.

"However, one of the tourists must have become panicky and phoned the police," she said. A launch, patrol cars and ambulance converged.

One officer said, "We gave her a bit of a ticking off." Diana didn't tell the tourists she is a former Gloucestershire County swimming champion.

Wild Rivers Bill Before the Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill designed to preserve sections of the nation's rivers in their free-flowing state comes up for Senate debate today, with 37 of the 100 senators already on record in favor of it.

The bill would designate a national system of wild and scenic rivers. Under its terms, certain streams in wilderness areas would be ordered kept in their primitive state as wild rivers. Other scenic rivers would be developed for recreation.

All would be kept in free-flowing condition. In addition to designating seven wild rivers and five scenic rivers, the bill would authorize studies of 27 other streams for possible inclusion in the system later.

The measure carries the names of 37 senators as co-sponsors.

This One Hasn't Lost Her Spirit

LONDON (AP)—Actress Diana Bradbury got so riled when three American tourists claimed that Britain had lost its spirit that she leapt fully clothed into the River Thames and swam to the other side.

She won her point, a $56 bet, and a lecture from police.

Diana, 25, met two men and a girl when she left a party in Chelsea Monday.

"They started running down the country and said the nation had lost its backbone," she said. She hotly defended her country, and $56 was laid that she could not swim the river.

Then she jumped—miniskirt and all—into the Thames and splashed to the far bank.

"However, one of the tourists must have become panicky and phoned the police," she said. A launch, patrol cars and ambulance converged.

One officer said, "We gave her a bit of a ticking off." Diana didn't tell the tourists she is a former Gloucestershire County swimming champion.

Missing Girl Found Dead at Girard, Pa.

GIRARD, Pa. (AP) — A 12-year-old girl, missing since Sunday, was found dead today in a heavily wooded and swampy area near this northwestern Pennsylvania community.

State troopers said a searching party found the body of Connie Rae Carstater shortly after dawn.

Officers said there was no immediate word on what caused her death.

The girl had pedaled her bicycle to a grocery store three miles from her home Sunday, cased a $2 check she was given Saturday for her 12th birthday, purchased some candy and fishing equipment, then disappeared.

Her bicycle and bag of purchases were found in bushes 300 feet from a road about one-half mile from her home. A state trooper said it was improbable Connie Rae rode her bike into the rough bushes.

"It looks like it was carried back and then thrown into the brush," he said.

More than 200 volunteer searchers, aided by airplanes, helicopters and tracking dogs, combed the heavily wooded, swampy area where Connie Rae's articles were found.

Connie Rae's mother, Janet, separated from her husband, notified state police when the youngster failed to return home some two hours after her shopping trip.

Erle County authorities are still searching for the slayer of Christine Watson, 10, of Millcreek, whose body was found July 19, 1966 in some bushes near her home. Her throat was slashed.

A boy playing with her said she had gone off with a man who asked her to go into the woods to see minnows. The boy fled. The girl's body was found a few hours later.

Spa Liquor Licenses Exceed Law

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The Garland County Grand Jury has asked the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board why the number of alcoholic beverage licenses issued in Garland County exceed the number allocated by law, and why there is inadequate policing of the outlets licensed.

In the grand jury's first interim report, issued Saturday, there also was a resolution recommending that Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller be apprised of the backlog of cases in the Chancery Court, and that he be asked to charge his appointee for the office with the responsibility of establishing a schedule designed to expedite disposition of the cases.

The report made no mention of investigations into gambling and vice called for by Circuit Judge Henry Britt when he charged the jury last May.

The other three resolutions in the report dealt with operational procedures for county officials.

ABC Director Alvin Bell already has answered the jury's question on the licensing of liquor outlets. Bell said that a 1939 act that limited the number of liquor licenses in a county was being tested in the Arkansas Supreme Court.

The Pulaski Circuit Court had declared it void on grounds that its sponsor, former state Sen. Paul Gutensohn of Sebastian County, was not legally a member of the state legislature at the time of the bill's passage and approval, Bell said.

Persons seeking licenses now have to acquire one already in existence, Bell said.

Cites Student Visual Trouble

TORONTO (AP) — Dr. S. D. Clements of Little Rock, Ark., a director of the Child Guidance Study Unit of the University of Arkansas, said in an interview here Monday that a study in his state found 15 to 17 per cent of the public school population had minimal problems with visual, audial and perceptual disorders that interfere with normal understanding, learning and reaction to surroundings.

Clements is one of the speakers at a five-day workshop on minimal brain dysfunction in children.

About 700 persons from the United States and Canada are attending the workshop, which opened Monday under the auspices of the Ontario Association for Children with Learning Disabilities and the Ontario Department of Education.

Backside of Moon Flashed by Lunar 5

By RALPH DIGHTON

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Once every five seconds a picture of the backside of the moon flashed on television monitor screens at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

Although some of the pictures were of an area never before photographed, only half a dozen persons watched.

The moon was getting to be "old hat."

That was the scene Monday as Lunar Orbiter 5, last of a successful series of photographic robots, television frames it snapped Sunday as it started a 14-day orbital mission around the moon.

Relay of pictures from earlier orbiters drew crowds of up to 300 newsmen and off-duty technicians.

There was nothing wrong with the pictures—they were probably the best yet taken by any spacecraft in the $200 million program. The new photographs will aid lunar mappers and help find potential astronaut landing sites which soft-landing surveyors examine at close range.

But there were no surprises. The high mountains and wide craters filmed from an altitude of 1,660 miles were typical of rough areas already photographed thousands of times on the front and backside of the moon.

Lunar Orbiter 5 is expected to begin shooting late tonight its first pictures of the frontside of the moon.

Countess Settles Old Account

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A San Francisco limousine service has received $1250 from the estate of a German countess to settle a 33-year-old account.

Jack Cohen, president of the Gray Line, said Kelly's Stables provided limousine service for Countess Natalie Herzogen of Mecklenburg when she visited San Francisco in 1934.

The countess died soon after returning to Germany. The Gray Line purchased Kelly's Stables.

what the statements or the report said.

Results of the investigation have been turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation "for consideration of possible violation of federal law," Cahalan said.

Pollard, Temple and Cooper originally were listed in police reports as suspected snipers "killed in exchange of gunfire."

No weapon was reported found near their bodies, and this sparked an investigation.

The bodies of Temple and Pollard were found in one room and Cooper's was in another across a hall.

A number of persons who said they were in the motel on the night of the shootings claimed they were lined up against a wall, beaten with gun butts and threatened with death by the raiding officers.

The National Guard statement said Sgt. Mortimer Leblanc, 41, fired a .50-caliber machine gun at the apartment where Tanya Lynn Blanding was slain, apparently by guardsmen's bullets.

The statement said the sergeant fired when he saw a flash in the apartment window. The child's family says the flash was from a match to light a cigarette.

normal in the Arab sector of Jerusalem after a one-day business and transportation strike protesting Israel's unification of the Arab and Israeli sectors of Jerusalem. The strike was completely effective, but shops and stores reopened today and buses and taxis began running again.

Jerusalem police also announced a reward of $1,660 for help in recovering the jeweled crown and decorations stolen from a statue of the Virgin Mary in the Church of the Holy Sepulcher Wednesday. Police hoped the reward would persuade the thieves not to break up the decorations for the gold and jewels they contain.

Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, told a reporter for the New York Times there have been "positive developments" in the Middle East toward an Israeli-Arab peace settlement.

Goldberg said there had been a "consolidation of the ceasefire under U.N. supervision" and he looked to further U.N. action on key issues.

New Vietnam Obituaries Bloc Could Be Factor

By BARRY KRAMER
SAIGON (AP) — A new political bloc that has the potential of becoming the most powerful in South Vietnam began its first national convention in Saigon today.

Political analysts say that if the elements in the bloc can be pulled together into some type of political alliance, the group could control up to one million votes among the 5.4 million registered voters.

All indications are that the new political grouping, which calls itself Toan let—all Vietnam—tends to be pro-government. However, it cannot be called a government party.

The convention reportedly will endorse three tickets of 10 men for the Sept. 3 Senate elections. The three tickets are considered heavily pro-government.

There is an outside chance that the group also will endorse the military presidential ticket of Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky. But it was thought that certain elements in the bloc would prevent any endorsement in the presidential race.

Many members of the new bloc are civil servants and officials of the government who could be considered working for Premier Ky. Whether the group will be rigidly pro-Ky remains to be seen.

South Vietnam's civilian presidential candidates, who left 1,000 voters waiting Sunday when the candidates' plane landed them 10 miles away decided today to hit the campaign trail again, one candidate said.

The candidates had flown in a government plane from Saigon to Quang Tri, first stop on a scheduled 22-stop campaign tour arranged by the government.

Advocates kept their plane from landing at Quang Tri and down 10 miles away. When the candidates saw no crowd, they left in a helicopter.

Most of the government had sabotaged their trip and nine of them drafted an angry letter to Ky and Thieu.

Extra policemen took up guard posts inside the Capitol after the disturbance. The Senate remained in session through the afternoon.

bill. We need a ratbill."

The House earlier passed a bill—now in the Senate—that would make it a federal crime to cross a state line with the intention of inciting a riot.

Police said one demonstrator carried a large rat in a cage.

Jesse Gray, Harlem rent strike leader who was among those arrested, said after posting bond that the group came here to "demand passage of the rat bill but in turn our heads were beaten in and we were run out of Congress."

Most of the demonstrators returned to their New York homes by special bus but a delegation was left behind to pursue the rat bill situation.

Rep. Frank J. Brasco, D-N.Y., said he would try to arrange a meeting so the protesters could address their complaints about the situation to other members of Congress.

The House, after a raucous debate that found many members cracking jokes about the measure, refused to consider the rat bill, which would have supplied $40 million over two years. It may come up later, possibly as part of a housing package now under review in the Senate. The bill also was introduced again in the House by Rep. Theodore R. Kupferman, R-N.Y.

Extra policemen took up guard posts inside the Capitol after the disturbance. The Senate remained in session through the afternoon.

"Human happiness is produced not so much by great pieces of good fortune that seldom happen . . . as by little advantages that occur every day."

This bit of wisdom comes to us from good old Ben Franklin, who said so many noteworthy things and it is so true. Just think of the happiest people you know. . . invariably they are the ones who seem to get the most out of every day.

Ben Franklin did not tell us this, but we know that no one can be happy unless they are satisfied with their appearance. No matter what the occasion, great or small, you will take notice of the person who is well groomed. This need not be a great time consuming thing, it is merely a matter of selection. We at Raley's would like to add to your happiness (and ours) by helping you select your fall wardrobe. In our sportswear department you can find all the newest pantsuits, culottes and A line's with belted sweaters, blouses and shells to co-ordinate and sox to match.

Our dress and suit departments are filled with new fashions by leading designers. You will love the bright colors in our fall millinery. You will never be sorry for buying that Jame pin and earring set. They do things for that little dark dress that nothing else will do!

These are but a few of the things we have to show you and as always, we are running out of space. And so, we invite you to see for yourself. Just come to

Hiroshima Memorial Day

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP) — About 30,000 persons gathered at Hiroshima's Memorial Park Sunday to pray for the scores of thousands killed on Aug. 6, 1945, by the first atomic bomb ever used in war and to pray for peace.

Estimates of the number killed outright by the bomb range from 78,150 to 240,000. The names of 82,423 positively identified victims are in a cenotaph in the park.

Hiroshima now is a city of 540,000 and has been completely rebuilt, except for the hulk of the old commerce building.

Three Girls Plan Long Sea Journey

By PETER A. LANCE
NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Three European girls are taking the long way back to their native lands—a 45,000-mile land and sea journey into 18 countries.

"We want to prove a point, that women are capable of accomplishing any feat of endurance performed by man," said one of the girls, Alexandra Youngston, 23, of Dundee, Scotland.

Inspired by Britain's Sir Francis Chichester who sailed the globe alone in his sloop Gipsy Moth IV, the girls have nicknamed the station wagon they bought for the journey the "Gipsy Rover."

Miss Youngston and Isobel Turner, 22, of Kilmarnock, Scotland, have been working as governesses in New England and New York. Joining them is Marianna Kruger, 22, a mechanical draftsman from Schweinfurt, Germany.

They left Newport Saturday with international auto licenses and registrations and a $6,000 letter of credit. Driving in six-hour shifts, the girls expect to clock about 5,000 hours behind the wheel before the Gipsy Rover arrives in Glasgow next summer.

They will sleep in the Gipsy Rover on a specially constructed folding bed. "We plan to pull into driveways along the way and ask people to let us spend the night in their yards," Miss Turner said.

Their itinerary is plotted through Pennsylvania's Amish country, across the Corn Belt, over the Rockies and Sierras to San Francisco, then through Grand Canyon to El Paso, Tex. "We've tried to stay away from major highways so we can see America from a more personal viewpoint," Miss Turner said.

They plan to head through Mexico, over the Pan American Highway to Panama, then cross to Colombia by freighter because much of the highway from Panama to Colombia is unfinished.

Following the highway down the west coast of the continent, the girls will cross the Andes Mountains and plan to be in Buenos Aires by Dec. 19, when they are booked on an ocean liner that will carry them and their auto to Cape Town, South Africa.

Miss Kruger, who suffers from seasickness, will cross by air and meet them after the holidays.

Then they plan to go up the East African coast, through North Africa and the Middle East, into Yugoslavia and Bulgaria, swing down through Greece, cross the Swiss Alps to France, then leave Miss Kruger in her homeland.

Miss Youngston and Miss Turner then plan to drive to Calais where they will board a steamer to cross the English Channel, then head home after a brief holiday in London.

tion of being used almost universally by critics of television to demonstrate the depths to which programming can sink.

Performers, however, are not often given so many chances unless they have some sort of special quality or talent. This season, with Jerry back playing in NBC's "Accidental Family," his luck may change.

The half hour comedy is the first series developed by Sheldon Leonard under his recent NBC production deal, Leonard, in partnership with Danny Thomas, was involved in that string of comedy success that ranged from "The Andy Griffith Show" to "The Dick Van Dyke Show."

"For the first time I'm playing a character that is more or less myself," he said. "And if this doesn't go, I can't blame anyone else."

Carnival Queen Is Selected

BATESVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The 23rd annual White River Water Carnival at Batesville concluded Saturday night with the selection of Patricia Gail Pugh, 21, as Queen White River.

Miss Pugh, first runner-up in this year's Miss Arkansas Pageant, stands 5 feet, 6 1/2 inches tall, weighs 121 pounds and measures 37-24-37.

Runners-up were Joe Ann Whitten, 17, daughter of Mrs. Johnnie H. Whitten of Evening Shade (Sharp County), and Betty Melton, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Melton of Fayette (Marion County).

It is estimated that nine million Americans play the guitar.

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

HOLD ON TO THIS FRIENDSHIP

Dear Helen: I've had a friend for three years and she's a wonderful person. My parents always liked her a whole lot. She's smart in school and a good kid. But last week they took her home after a club meeting and found out she lives in THAT part of town. Quite a few dope addicts have been caught there, and it's where the riots and muggings start.

My folks asked more questions and learned my friend was from a broken home. They think divorce is terrible.

Well, the upshot is they want me to cool it. They said a person becomes what her environment makes her. They think I'll get in trouble.

Her house is neat and clean and her mother is nice, but my parents won't meet her. How can I get them to see that you can't classify people by how much money they have?—Or how many parents?—F.W.

Dear F: Perhaps you can't. But nevertheless, try to remain friendly with the girl. She needs you—and you need HER also; to counteract the snobbishness in your home.

Your parents must feel very shaky about their social position—and their ability to raise a daughter. Otherwise they'd recognize this friendship as their chance to prove themselves worthy.

The girl and her mother need kindness, not ostracism. They need acceptance, approval, and help in their effort to stay on the clean side of the slums. Thank goodness everyone doesn't judge character by money, or they might give up and stop trying.—H.

Dear Helen: I like this boy very much, but he likes me for what he thinks he can get. He tries, and I say "No," and he gets real mad and starts rumors about me. Then he winds up asking me out again and I think maybe he's reformed; but I find out different, and it starts all over.

Please don't say forget him, because I tried and now half the kids believe the things he said and they're telling the others—my reputation is so bad I'm afraid to go with anyone else. If I go with him (and I still like him, remember) it will get worse and if I don't he'll tell lies to make it worse.—

TRICKED AND PUZZLED

Dear T and P: How can you possibly "still like" a boy whose lies have almost ruined your reputation? XXXX (C.G.) him fast and let everyone know the reason why. Most will believe you.—H.

Dear Helen: I wish you'd print this for "Easy Going" who thinks a boy only parks with a girl he loves. I too was the "second girl" for a boy who took his "pure" girlfriend home first. But one night as we parked, a car across the lane was illuminated by passing lights. There was HIS decent, sweet girl parked with another boy. My boyfriend—who had just finished telling me he loved me—almost went out of his mind and threw me out of the car.

Thank heaven I found out while I could still laugh about it—after awhile—that some men are skunks.—NO LONGER EASY GOING

FBI Asks Public to Help Out

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Public help in tracking down the pistol-wielding bandit who stole $22,000 from a branch office of a Pine Bluff Bank July 31 was called for Saturday by the FBI.

The FBI described the bandit, who made his escape in a taxicab that he had waiting, as being in his late 20s or early 30s, 5-foot-10 to 6 feet in height, 160 to 180 pounds in weight and having crew cut, sandy hair.

The man, believed to own a lime-gold 1967 Ford Fairlane with a black vinyl top, was believed to have been in the area of the Pine Bluff J. C. Penny Store before the robbery, and in the area of a Mad Butcher grocery store near the Nebraska Street afterwards, the agents said.

Scientists Hopeful of Mapping Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists engaged in mapping the moon awaited results from Lunar Orbiter 5 today—hoping for new, clear views of the rugged, pock-marked lunar surface.

The 860-pound craft's mission was to photograph five possible new astronaut landing sites and work at clearing up the old riddle of whether the moon's features were caused by meteors or volcanoes.

Spokesmen at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory said the first pictures would be flashed on television monitor screens at the laboratory.

The shiny craft's camera system began working Sunday as it swooped low over the moon's surface. Scientists said after the landing site survey it would begin mapping most of the hidden side of the moon.

They hoped, through the new photographs, to see what causes "hot spots" on the moon's surface that are observable from earth. Some contend they may be sunlight reflecting off clouds of gas escaping through volcanic fissures.

Others believe the spots are merely lighter-colored materials on the surface.

Of particular interest were the craters Aristarchus, Censorinus, Dionysius, Dawes and Tycho—the hot spots.

Lunar Orbiter 5, the last in the lunar orbiter series, ends the program that sent successful craft to explore the moon's features. Earlier craft mapped eight potential landing spots for American astronauts, and provided some of the most detailed photos ever taken of the lunar surface.

Cub Rally Short, 7th Straight

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The hopes of Chicago fans that their team would end its losing streak went up with a Cub ninth-inning rally. Then, they went down again—with the sun.

The Cubs lost their seventh straight game, 6-3 to Pittsburgh, in the first game of a double-header Monday at Wrigley Field — where the only light available is the natural kind.

And they were losing the second game 3-1 when they rallied for a tie in the bottom of the ninth inning. But neither team could score again, and the game was called because of darkness after 14 innings.

The individual records count, but the game will have to be replayed—as part of a double-header Wednesday.

In the only other scheduled National League games, both at night, Ron Hunt's single sparked Los Angeles past first-place St. Louis 6-4 and Philadelphia trounced San Francisco 8-0.

Baltimore shut out Cleveland 4-0, Washington blanked Minnesota 5-0 and California rapped New York 8-4 in the only American League action.

Pittsburgh's Dennis Ribant had a no-hitter through seven innings in the second game at Chicago, but Ron Santo broke it up with his 23rd homer leading off the eighth.

The Cubs then chased Ribant when John Stephenson and Ernie Banks opened the ninth with singles. Don Kessinger advanced the runners with a sacrifice off reliever Al McBean, and Lee Thomas brought in a run with a groundout.

Juan Pizarro then took over for McBean, and Billy Williams greeted him with a single on a 3-2 pitch, tying the game.

Manny Sanguillen doubled home two Pittsburgh runs in the second inning and Al Luplow, who collected six hits for the day, singled home another in the eighth.

The Pirates used the ninth-inning rally to win the first game.

Chuck Hartenstein had held the Pirates at bay since taking over for Bob Shaw in the second inning, and the Cubs led 3-2 going into the ninth.

The relief pitcher then started Chicago's downfall by committing a throwing error on Maury Wills' slow roller. Roberto Clemente tied the game by singling with men on first and second, and Manny Mota put the Pirates ahead with a sacrifice fly off Rob Gardner, who replaced Hartenstein.

Donn Clendenon clinched it with a two-run homer.

With the Cards-Dodgers game tied 3-3, two out and men on first and second in the ninth, Hunt singled in one run. Another scored when center fielder Curt Flood bobbled the ball, and Hunt raced home when second baseman Phil Cagliano threw the relay past third.

The Cardinals, who were on a five-game winning streak, tied it in the eighth when Mike Shannon doubled home Orlando Cepeda, who had singled. Los Angeles had taken a 3-2 lead with two runs in the sixth on a sacrifice fly and Lou Johnson's steal of home.

Rich Allen's two-run homer in the Philadelphia first inning, giving him 11 RBI in his last five games, was all the hitting help Jim Bunning needed in recording the 36th shutout of his major league career.

The veteran right-hander allowed San Francisco just four hits while ending the Giants' winning streak at six games.

Baseball Is Over, Terry Turns to Golf

By MIKE RECHT
NEW YORK (AP) — "I really thought I could make it, but when the Mets don't want you ..."

So the baseball career of Ralph Terry, a 23-game winner and World Series star with the New York Yankees in 1962, ended, perhaps prematurely, at the age of 31.

"But when one door closes, sometimes another door opens," said the right-hander who won 107 major league games and two more in the Series. Another door has opened for him.

The lanky native of Big Cabin, Okla., has made the unusual jump from major league ball player to golf pro at the new Rostick Golf Club in nearby Mendham, N.J.

Terry teaches golf, sells its products and publicizes the club and on Aug. 28, he will be the host pro to a $10,000 pro-am event, "my first real money tournament."

"I was in a state of shock for a couple of weeks when the New York Mets let me go this spring because baseball was such a part of my life. But I understood. They had to make room for some younger players."

"I think I had a few years left in baseball, but what would it have proved hanging around. I'm 31 now. Why wait until I'm 35 or 40?"

Golf isn't new to Terry, who won the baseball players' tournament three times and finished second three times. In fact, it was indirectly baseball that got him started thinking seriously about golf.

"I fractured a hip in the accident after the 1957 season and they had me in traction for a time. I couldn't run in spring training of 1958, so I started playing golf to get my legs in shape."

"I shoot par now on our par 70 course."

"Going on the tour is something else. I've got to get my game ironed out before even thinking about it."

Finley Likes Attitude at Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — Kansas City Athletics' owner Charles O. Finley met with Gov. Dan Evans and Seattle Mayor J.D. Braman Monday and said he "was more than pleased with the attitude of city and county officials."

Finley said if a decision is made to move his American League baseball franchise, an announcement will be made around Oct. 1 after a meeting of other league owners. The move requires the approval of seven of 10 owners.

Evans and Braman last week asked Finley to consider moving the A's here.

The league's last-place team has also received feelers from Oakland and Milwaukee, and has been urged to remain in Kansas City by local groups.

Finley said Seattle is not in a "competition area" as is Oakland, across the bay from the San Francisco Giants. He also said the club is not interested in Milwaukee.

Senators Shut Out Minnesota

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Oh Joe Hardy, if only you could see your Washington Senators now.

Hardy, the mythical hero who led the Senators from oblivion to the American League pennant in a best-selling book a few years back, would've popped his buttons with pride over Gil Hodges' club today.

The Senators got a three-hitter from Phil Ortega Monday night and blanked Minnesota 5-0 for their third straight victory and ninth in the last 12 games. It left them at the magic .500 mark—a plateau seldom reached by the perennial also-rans.

Washington has soared into sixth place in the standings just seven games off Chicago's first-place pace. They've won 21 of the last 29 games and if this keeps up, it could mean a congressional investigation.

In the only other American League games played Monday, Baltimore's Gene Brabender blanked Cleveland 4-0 on a four-hitter and California ripped New York 8-4, scoring seven runs in the eighth inning.

In the National League, Los Angeles ended St. Louis' five-game winning streak, beating the Cardinals 6-4, Philadelphia pounded San Francisco 8-0 and Pittsburgh defeated Chicago 6-3 in the first game of a double-header. The second game was called by darkness, tied at 3-3 after 14 innings.

Ken McMullen smashed his 13th home run of the season and Paul Casanova drove in two runs with a first-inning double as the Senators jumped into an early lead.

Ortega, running his record to 9-5, retired the first 13 batters he faced before Bob Allison's drive fell off Hank Allen's glove for a fifth-inning double.

But it didn't ruffle the big right-hander. He allowed just two other singles and was in control all the way.

Ortega struck out seven and ended a personal seven-game losing streak against the Twins, who slipped to third place, three games back of the idle White Sox.

Brabender, recalled by Baltimore from Rochester on July 21, was just as strong. He pitched hitless ball until the sixth inning and finished with a four-hitter against the Indians.

Sam Bowers' two-run homer capped a four-run seventh inning that won it for the Orioles.

The Angels exploded for seven runs in the eighth inning on six singles, a walk and an error, wiping out a 4-1 New York lead.

Four straight singles by Jose Cardenal, Don Mincher, Jim Fregosi and Bobby Knoop, following a leadoff walk by pinch hitter Bob Taylor tied the score.

Then Rich Reichardt and Bubba Morton each drove in a pair of runs with the fifth and sixth hits of the inning for California.

Mickey Mantle smashed his 20th home run of the year for the Yankees, who tumbled back into the American League cellar.

Agency Seeks Commission From Player

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Washington, D.C., firm specializing in managing finances for celebrities has charged in federal court that Bubba Smith did not pay a commission on an estimated $200,000 he received for signing with the Baltimore Colts.

The firm, Celebrities Investment Management Co., alleged in U.S. District Court Monday that Smith violated provisions of a three-year contract.

Smith was given 20 days to show cause why a $20,000 lien against his assets should not be granted by a federal judge.

Testimony from Joseph Tuzolo said Smith, a 6-foot-7½, 280-pound tackle who played at Michigan State, agreed to make the firm his sole agent for negotiations for 10 per cent.

Hydroplane Driver Will Race Again

OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP) — Doctors say he'll first have to learn to walk again, but Owensboro's Bill Sterett declares he'll be racing hydroplanes within a year.

The winner of the World Hydroplane Unlimited Championship last June in Detroit was sidelined July 27 after suffering a serious hip injury while testing a new seven-liter craft at Guntersville, Ala.

The accident separated his right leg from the pelvic area by three inches.

He will be on a hammock-type support for at least five weeks, flat on his back, and then he must go through tedious rehabilitation.

Sterett never lost consciousness during the accident and still recalls vividly the mishap which took him out of action.

"I started the boat out at about 110 miles per hour the first time and increased the speed about 10 m.p.h. each trip around the Guntersville course.

After four trips around the course, he decided to try for 150 m.p.h. "The boat was going so good," he recalled, "I just couldn't help myself."

"On my fifth time around I looked down and noticed my speedometer read more than 150." Then it happened.

"The nose of the boat then raised six inches and seemed to hang suspended above the water.

"Then, without any warning, the boat just seemed to take off just like an airplane."

Witnesses said the craft spun vertically about 50 feet into the air before breaking into three sections upon hitting the surface again.

Would he retire from boat racing?

"Sterett, 42, looked at the lead weights hanging over his feet. "Never!"

Wrightman Cup Hopes Runneth Over

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — The United States Wrightman Cup hopes runneth over while the Davis Cup hath sprung a leak.

The opposite fortunes of this country's male and female tennis players were brought to the fore Monday as Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., and Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., capture the Eastern Grass Court Championships.

Mrs. King, a two-time Wimbledon champion at 23 and the top woman player in the world, will lead the United States against Great Britain at Cleveland this weekend in the best-of-seven Wrightman Cup matches.

She wasn't at her best Monday, but rallied to beat upset-minded Kathy Harter of Seal Beach, Calif., 4-6, 6-2, 6-2. It was her third Eastern crown in four years.

Riessen's victory was a slap at Davis Cup Captain George MacCall, who dropped him from the touring cup squad last week. The 25-year-old Northwestern graduate outlasted his Davis Cup doubles partner, Clark Graebner of Beachwood, Ohio, 18-16, 6-2, 6-1.

The U.S. was eliminated from further 1967 Davis Cup competition some weeks back by Ecuador and Riessen and Graebner dropped the doubles, a key point in the 3-2 defeat. They lost the doubles here, too, bowing to Australia's Bill Bowrey and Owen Davidson, 6-4, 9-7.

Mrs. King, who won the singles, doubles and mixed doubles at Wimbledon, once again teamed with pint-sized Rosemary Casals of San Francisco and defeated Mary Ann Elsel of St. Louis and Mrs. Donna Floyd Fales of New York City, 6-3, 13-15, 6-4, in the Eastern finals.

Mrs. King, Miss Casals and Miss Elsel are on the Wrightman Cup team, along with Nancy Richey of Farmers Branch, Tex., and Graebner's wife, Carole.

Antipoverty Money Probe Is Likely

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
In a move to head off further racial disturbance, Sens. Abraham A. Ribicoff and Charles H. Percy proposed today the creation of a $1 billion fund that would permit President Johnson to make grants, aimed at lessening tension, to states, communities and local organizations.

The nation's cities remained quiet, meanwhile, as the last of the National Guardsmen called into Milwaukee were scheduled to leave today and a curfew in Wichita, Kan., was lifted. Milwaukee's midnight curfew remained in effect.

Cited as an aid in bringing calm to Wichita was a group of young Negro volunteers who patrolled streets shaken by two nights of disturbances.

In Philadelphia, Mayor James H. J. Tate said he plans to extend the state of limited emergency declared to head off violence in his city because "there is still enough information to keep us on the alert."

The proposal by Percy, R-Ill., and Ribicoff, D-Conn., would require no new spending, they said, because it would authorize the President to create a neighborhood emergency fund by the transfer of up to two percent of budgeted, nondefense spending.

The fund, as the senators see it, would permit the President to act rapidly in response to local initiatives.

Brawling erupted in two galleries of the House of Representatives Monday as a group of Negroes from New York's Harlem, demanding federal rat-control legislation, fought with police. Fists flew and six persons suffered minor injuries. Eight of the estimated 95 demonstrators were arrested.

"Rats cause riots," the group chanted as they entered the public galleries shortly after the House adjourned a routine session. "We don't need a riot bill. We need a rat bill!"

The House refused to consider a $40-million rat-control bill, but passed a bill, now under Senate consideration, that would make it a federal crime to cross a state line with the intention of inciting a riot.

Officials in Detroit said more arrests were likely after the charging Monday of patrolman Ronald August, 28, and Robert Paille, 32, for the murder of two Negro teen-agers in a motel during the city's riots. The two pleaded innocent at their arraignment.

The teen-agers were originally listed as suspected snipers "killed in exchange of gunfire."

Several persons who said they were in the motel on the night of the shooting said they had been lined up against the wall, beaten with gun butts and threatened with death by raiding officers.

In Washington, Senate investigators were reported divided today over the course of their probe into the cause of the riots.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee convinced him there should be further investigation of allegations that federal antipoverty money has supported organizations directly or indirectly responsible for the riots.

Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., are seeking an investigation that will dig into the social factors underlying the unrest.

Also in Washington, a $300,000 rehabilitation program with a former reformatory inmate at its head seemed to be getting results in clearing slum eyesores.

The group, whose director is 20-year-old "Catfish" Mayfield, calls itself Pride, Inc., and provides work for about 850 youths, the fire apparently started.

He said the can and boards from the hall floor had been taken to the State Police laboratory for testing.

Five persons are being held at the city jail in connection with the case, he said.

Killed in the fire were Johnnie Dare, 50; Mrs. Lilly Green, 42; and Mrs. Ethel Gortch, 69, who were trapped in an upstairs apartment.

Mrs. Green previously was reported to be Dare's wife.

Thug Fighting Prosecutor Is Killed

By DON MCKEE
JEFFERSON, Ga. (AP) — Investigators dug into car theft operations and illegal liquor traffic today in a hunt for the assassin whose dynamite bomb snuffed out the racketeering career of a state prosecutor.

The booby-trap killing of Solicitor General Floyd G. Hoad, who had led a crime clean-up drive, shocked community leaders into marshaling their own citizens war on organized crime in this Northeast Georgia area where car stealing and bootlegging flourish.

Hoad, 40, father of four, died Monday morning when he turned the ignition switch of his car and detonated six to 12 sticks of dynamite wired under the hood. He was on his way to present evidence to a grand jury prior to criminal court next week.

"If it was intended as a threat, I'm going to double my efforts," said Judge Mark Donahoe of Superior Court, elected as a reform candidate with Hoad nearly three years ago. "We have got to try to eliminate these brutalities, these hoodlum tactics."

Authorities and townspeople agreed that Hoad's crusading crime fight had left a multitude of enemies. Joe Hoad said he had urged his younger brother to take precautions against a car booby trap last May—after Floyd Hoad brought up the subject.

"He came to me, brought it up and said this thing might happen," the brother said. But Floyd Hoad did not follow through on the advice to place strips of tape on the hood and doors of his car.

The bomb murder was similar to a dynamite explosion that injured Martin Page, an auto salvage operator at Greenville, S.C., more than a year ago. Greenville police then were investigating auto theft operations in Georgia and Detective J.C. Gillespie said the ring was involved with Page.

Northeast Georgia long has been a center of auto theft and bootlegging rackets. In 1964, when more than 7,500 cars were stolen in Georgia, three policemen were shot to death near Lawrenceville, about 20 miles from Jefferson, and the slayings were linked to car theft operations. Two men were convicted of the killings.

Residents of this town of 2,000 about 60 miles northeast of Atlanta must "get themselves together...and get the criminal element cleaned up," said Herman Buffington, publisher of the weekly Jackson Herald.

Catfish's Boys Cleaning Up Washington

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
WASHINGTON (AP) — The weed-grown alley was so littered with glass that trucks wouldn't drive through until a green-clad crew of Negro teen-agers whirled through Monday.

When they were finished another of Washington's slum eyesores had fallen to Pride, Inc., and the troops of "Catfish" Mayfield.

It was the same in 10 of the worst trash-littered poverty areas in the nation's capital. Block after block was picked clean by crews of youths 14 to 18 who are receiving $56 a week in the new program.

Rufus "Catfish" Mayfield—at 20 a veteran of 27 months in a reformatory for auto theft and a militant in Washington's huge Negro population—had the idea for Pride, Inc. He knocked on federal doors until the Labor Department freed $300,000 for it.

That was last week. With an absolute minimum of paper work and little need to spread the word among the work-hungry youngsters the program got rolling Monday. "Catfish" is chairman of the board, his salary undisclosed.

There has been some congressional criticism of giving Mayfield so much money to administer. But most civic and business leaders in Washington—a city whose population is 63 per cent Negro—have adopted a wait-and-see attitude.

"This is not a riot prevention group, this is a pride building program," said Marion Barry, another of Washington's militants, who is working with "Catfish."

Some 850 youths and another 150 supervisors are involved in the program, which is scheduled to last one month. Barry hopes it will prove so successful that funds can be extended year-round to give work to school dropouts.

TWO YOUNG ARABS, who are not convinced of the good intentions of an Israeli soldier, get an assist in crossing the wrecked Allenby Bridge to the western bank of the Jordan River. The youngsters were among 200 refugees allowed to return home recently after they were termed "hardship cases." Doves of Arabs crossed to the Jordanian eastern bank after the war, but only a few have been allowed to return to their homes on the Israeli-held side.

Marines in Fiercest Red Barrages

By JOHN LENGEL
DONG HA, Vietnam (AP) — U.S. Marines below the demilitarized zone underwent some of the fiercest enemy barrages of the war through the first week of July.

North Vietnamese artillerymen, firing from sturdy, well camouflaged bunkers, lobbed across 3,581 shells. The Leatherneck post at Con Thien was the target of 804 in a single day, July 6.

The shells ranged up to six-inch, 108-pounders from 150mm weapons mounted on tank-like tracks for mobility.

The artillery remains a dangerous threat, but Marines feel American countermeasures — the return fire of U.S. guns, ground sweeps and intensified air strikes—have at least taken the edge off the enemy cannon-er's game.

The number of shells has dropped to about 70 a day.

Red antiaircraft guns make the aerial operations hazardous. At least seven planes have been lost.

It is along the demilitarized zone that the Marines have been committed to meeting and killing North Vietnamese regulars. It is at the zone the figurative line has been drawn.

"If we don't stop them at Gio Linh and Con Thien, where do we go?" the Marine commander, Lt. Gen. Robert E. Cushman said. "The next place is Cam Lo and Dong Ha. Then we get casualties there."

"We end up at Hai Van pass (five miles north of Da Nang) and we have lost two provinces for sure—along with inordinate casualties."

In holding the line since Operation Hastings blocked a Red invasion in July 1966, the Marines have claimed 6,639 North Vietnamese dead. Leatherneck casualties have been 1,163 men killed, one quarter of their dead in the war, and 6,891 wounded.

Before Hastings, the zone went virtually unnoticed. The closest Marine battalion was at Phu Bai, 50 miles south.

Since March, the beginning of the dry season, the fighting has been more vicious and frequent and, with the exception of Khe Sanh near the Laotian border, concentrated around Con Thien.

Explains Youth Church Defection

MONTREAL, N.C. (AP) — Differences between generations and classes are sharper than racial barriers, a church researcher said Monday night in trying to explain the defection of many young adults from churches.

Lyle E. Schaller, director of the regional church planning office in Cleveland, told the National Ministers Conference that research indicates "we're just not reaching the group that's having children—the young adults."

He said there has been an average 30 per cent drop in child baptism in most churches while the nation's birth rate has dropped 13 per cent.

Appointment Hearing Is Delayed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The hearing on a friendly lawsuit to determine the legality of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's appointment of Lynn A. Davis as director of the Arkansas State Police was postponed Monday until Aug. 21.

Circuit Judge Warren Wood said he had postponed the hearing at the request of Assistant Atty. Gen. Don Langston, who represents defendants Julian Hogan, director of the Department of Administration, state Auditor Jimmie Jones and state Treasurer Nancy Hall.

Robert Shults, the attorney for Davis and members of the State Police Commission, did not consent to the postponement, but indicated that he wouldn't "vigorously contest" it, Wood said.

Davis and the State Police commissioners, acting as individual taxpayers, filed the suit last week to challenge Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell's ruling that Davis does not meet a legal requirement that the director must have lived in Arkansas continuously for 10 years prior to his appointment.

Davis, a native of Texarkana, maintained a residence there while living in Anaheim, Calif., and working as an FBI agent in Los Angeles the last five years.

Justice Clark in Hospital

BANGKOK (AP) — U.S. Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark has been admitted to a U.S. Army hospital in Bangkok with an intestinal disorder.

Clark, who arrived here Aug. 2 for a series of lectures to university students, became ill Friday night, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said.

The 68-year-old jurist, who is retiring from the Supreme Court, came to Bangkok after a visit to Australia.

RIOT AFTERMATH or accident victim? Not at all. New York City officials admit that five to six people die every day on the Bowery in their city, simply from starvation or exposure. Bowery priest Father Tom Murphy, shown here with a skid row derelict, says he would put the figure "around 20 or 30." The priest operates a Bowery boarding house at his own expense, as a haven for those who need rest and shelter.

Constitution Vs. Caligula

Historians tell us that Caligula, the evil Roman emperor, used a sly trick to enforce his despotic rule. He posted his laws on pillars, so high up that the people could never be sure what they were.

But if the lawmakers of today should try to copy Caligula, they would run head-on into the "due process" clause of the Constitution. Under this clause, no person may be punished under a law that he cannot reasonably understand.

Take the case of a motorist who was cited for speeding. According to the local traffic ordinance, the speed limit applied to all "built up" areas of the community.

But a court threw out the charge, on the ground that the ordinance was too vague to be understood. The court said a neighborhood that seemed "built up" to a visiting farmer might seem quite different to his city cousin.

The mischief in a vague law lies not only in leaving the people unsure of their responsibilities but also in allowing too much leeway in its enforcement. Thus, a law on the improper influencing of juries was held unconstitutional because there was too much scope in the word "influence." The court said: "A newspaper article, a bribe, a gesture, a smile, a lifting of the eyebrows—all can be caught in its broad net."

True, it may not always be practical to make the rules so plain that there is no room for doubt. Perfect clarity is not required. For example: An accused hit-run driver claimed that the statute under which he was arrested was too vague to be constitutional.

"It requires the giving of 'reasonable' assistance to an injured person," he said. "But what does 'reasonable' mean? Opinions may differ a great deal on that point."

However, the court upheld the statute and found the defendant guilty as charged. The court said the legislature could not be expected to spell out a specific treatment for every possible injury.

In other words, the Constitution allows vagueness that cannot reasonably be avoided — but forbids vagueness that leaves the public unfairly in the dark.

"The posting of criminal laws high on a semantic wall beyond the vision of the people," said one court, "cannot be given judicial sanction."

Totem Pole

are the chief hazard to be avoided.

Q—I am a man, 66, with hardening of the arteries. I am taking digitalis and Coumadin. Recently my vision has been blurred. Could this be from the medicine?

A—There are many possible causes of blurred vision, including hardening of the arteries. The most obvious and easiest to treat is a film of mucus on the conjunctiva which can be washed out with ordinary soothing eye drops. For other causes an eye specialist should be consulted. Neither warfarin (Coumadin) nor digitalis would cause blurring of your vision.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Getting the Bid At the Right Price

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There is an easy way for South to get to three no-trump with today's hand. He just opens with one no-trump and his partner raises him. South has the points for a no-trump opening but it is usually poor tactics to open one no-trump with a 5-4-2-2 distribution.

North can get there just about as easily after the club opening and the spade overcall if he bids one no-trump but North will have a lot of worries against a spade opening. With North as declarer spades are only stopped once. A spade lead up to South as declarer produces two spade stoppers.

In any event North's raise to two clubs is superior to a one no-trump call. After East bids two diamonds, South can still bid two no-trump and hope for a diamond lead or for something in spades in the North hand but two hearts is his correct bid.

West's three-diamond bid keeps pressure on North. His two-club bid was a good one and he feels justified in bidding again and certainly can afford to bid four clubs but North had wanted to bid no-trump at his first time and North knows that nine tricks are enough for game at no-trump while 11 are needed in clubs.

North can have his cake and eat it, too, if he uses a delayed cue bid so North bids three spades.

This bid can't be interpreted as a slam try. North only bid two clubs at his first chance to act. It must tell South that North is willing to play at four clubs but if South can stop diamonds, North thinks that three no-trump is the right place to play the hand.

South is delighted to bid three no-trump and has no trouble collecting his nine tricks.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

In 1942, Lt. I. M. Chissow of the Soviet Union fell from his damaged airplane, without a parachute. He landed on a snow-covered slope, slid to the bottom and somehow survived with only an injured spine and a broken pelvis, says The World Almanac. The fall is reputed to be the longest anyone has experienced without a parachute and lived.

Texarkana Team Beaten at Monroe

MONROE, La. (AP) — Four games are on tap today in the Dixie Seniors World Series baseball tournament which runs through Saturday.

In Monday's competition, teams from Alabama, Louisiana, Georgia, and Mississippi emerged victors from first-round games.

Jueytown, Ala., edged Texarkana, Tex., 3-2; and Pascagoula, Miss., defeated St. Bernard Parish, La., 7-2.

In the other two games, defending champion Monroe, La., defeated Hixson Redbank, Tenn., 8-1; and Norcross, Ga., blanked West Monroe, La., 6-0.

There are still about 21,280 active blacksmiths in the United States.

Procedure for Troops Outlined

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration—acting on the heels of a sharp dispute between the President and Michigan Gov. George Romney—has formalized its procedure for sending federal troops to a riot zone.

Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, in letters sent to all 50 governors, outlined steps they must take to obtain U.S. military help to quell a riot.

The requirements closely parallel those followed by the administration in sending troops last month to the Detroit riot. That procedure was criticized by Romney—a potential Republican candidate for president next year—as politically inspired.

Johnson and Clark have denied politics entered the administration's consideration of Romney's request for troops. Clark has said Romney didn't actually ask for troops until eight hours after the governor said he did.

Clark outlined this three-step procedure states should follow for getting federal troops:

—Determination that serious domestic violence exists.

—Determination that local and state police and National Guardsmen cannot handle the disturbance.

—A request by the governor or legislature to the President for federal troops.

Clark said the request to the President should be written. But he emphasized that in cases of extreme emergency, receipt of a written request need not be a prerequisite to presidential action.

Romney has said he didn't understand until well after he first contacted Clark that a written request was necessary to get troops. He said Clark first told him an oral request would be acceptable.

Agencies Say Negroes Are Still Lagging

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two federal commissions say Negroes continue to lag far behind whites in job and education opportunities. And the staff director for one says recent Negro riots could be one outgrowth.

In reporting failure of most Southern and border states to desegregate their public schools—13 years after the Supreme Court ruled segregation unconstitutional—the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights called Monday for laws to push adherence to the high court ruling.

That recommendation coincided with issuance of a separate Equal Employment Opportunity Commission report showing Negroes and Spanish-Americans have failed to obtain job parity with whites.

Not only do the minorities have larger unemployment rates, said the employment commission, but those Negroes and Spanish-Americans who hold jobs tend to be concentrated in the worst-paying work.

The civil rights commission called for legislation that would permit any Negro child or his parents to bring civil action for damages against people who harass or intimidate them in connection with school enrollment.

In the 10 years after the Supreme Court's 1954 desegregation decision, the commission said, the proportion of Negroes attending previously all-white schools in the 17 Southern and border states increased about 1 per cent a year—to a total of 11 per cent by 1964-65.

It branded a failure the Health, Education and Welfare Department's acceptance of state-backed "freedom of choice" plans, which let the student select the school he wants to attend.

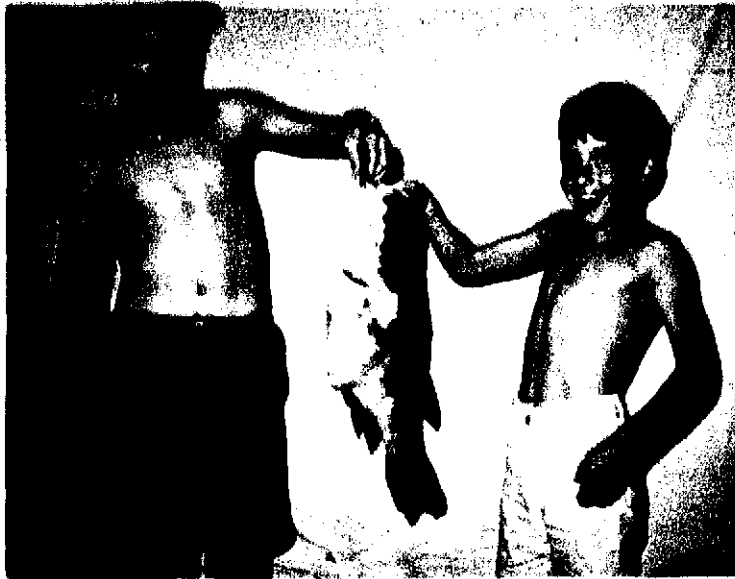

Few white children have enrolled in predominantly Negro schools, the panel said, while intimidation has served to hold down the number of Negro enrollees in mostly white schools.

AP Executive Escapes Injury

PENN YAN, N.Y. (AP) — Alan J. Gould, retired executive editor of The Associated Press, and his daughter escaped serious injury Monday in an accident that left their automobile partly wedged atop an eight-foot retaining wall.

Police said the car carrying Gould, 69, of Elmira, and his daughter, Mary Ann Houseman, 32, of New York City, plunged down a 15-foot embankment along a road five miles south of this Finger Lakes village.

Thinks Tax Hike Is Not Near Enough

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken says he has been told President Johnson's war-related tax increase proposal "isn't half of what they will need. They are going to try to put off asking for the rest of it until after the election" next year.

The Vermont Republican said in an interview if the administration doesn't "listen to reason pretty soon" on Vietnam, "it will have written one of the worst chapters in American history or, indeed, in world history."

Aiken said his constituents are protesting the 10 per cent surtax on income taxes asked by Johnson Thursday to help finance mounting war costs.

The senator, second-ranking Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a persistent war policy critic, said he had been "reliably informed" that the requested tax hike was less than half of what is needed.

He said he agrees with the assessment Monday by Democratic leader Mike Mansfield that the administration is planning a further escalation of the war.

Mansfield told the Senate Monday it appeared there was going to be a further escalation of the fighting "with the costs in lives and money being borne preponderantly by us."

He said many things pointed to a longer war and less potential to peace, including Johnson's decision to send 45,000 more men and the battleship New Jersey to the combat zone and what he described as apparently unsuccessful efforts to persuade U.S. allies to contribute more troops.

Indictments Made in Newark Riots

By RICHARD LERNER
NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Three weeks of arraignments and indictments by the Essex County grand jury finally have cleared Newark's jails of most of the 1,465 persons arrested during racial violence last month.

Most of those arrested between the evening of July 12, when the riots began, and the morning of July 17, when Gov. Richard J. Hughes declared the emergency over, have been released on bail or in the custody of their lawyers.

But Asst. County Prosecutor William R. Ferlanti said Monday that another 400 to 500 complaints are still to be heard by the grand jury. Ferlanti said 489 indictments involving 700 persons had been returned and 55 complaints involving 70 persons had been dismissed.

Statistics compiled from police records by the U.S. marshal's office here revealed that 90 per cent of those arrested reside in Newark and that nearly 50 per cent were over 25 years of age. The records appeared to discount claims by some city police that the riots were the work of "young outsiders."

Most defendants have asked for a jury trial and five extra courts are scheduled to begin trying cases Sept. 25, with judges available for pretrial motions beginning Sept. 15.

Charges against those indicted range from petty larceny to assault with intent to kill, but about 75 per cent of the indictments were for breaking and entering, larceny, or possession and receipt of stolen goods.

Police records showed 91 persons arrested on charges involving weapons or explosives. Two-thirds of these persons were over 25 and 20 per cent came from outside New Jersey, according to the U.S. marshal's office.

UA, LRU to Merge by April 1968

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. Carey V. Stabler, president of Little Rock University, told a regular monthly meeting of the Education Department staff here Monday that unless there is opposition from Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller or the General Assembly, the proposed merger between his school and the University of Arkansas should become effective April 15, 1968.

Stabler said that when LRU officially became the University of Arkansas at Little Rock the following September, the state would get an additional 83 acres of "high-priced" campus, a dozen buildings, a good faculty and a program that would take the state about 10 years and $50 million to duplicate.

Courses at the UALR will include all those taught at the University of Arkansas except agriculture and medicine, Stabler said.

Troubles Are Piling Up on Johnson

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Troubles are piling up on President Johnson the closer he comes to the 1968 election, now only 15 months away. He is a political master but he is headed for his toughest workout.

Some but not all of his troubles: the war in Vietnam, the city riots, his request last week to Congress to raise individual and corporate taxes. Before election day he will probably have more troubles. Two of the best things that could happen to him—an end to the war and an unconvincing Republican opponent—are only dreams now. It's too soon to guess who the opponent will be and an end to the war is not in sight.

As for the riots: there may be more this year and worse ones in 1968.

The Washington Post poked around in Congress, found uneasy spirits, particularly among Democrats, some of whom felt Johnson is hurting, and a belief that these are the most troubled times in this country ever.

Senate thinking wouldn't be complete without a word from Johnson's longtime friend and sometime critic, Everett M. Dirksen, the Senate's Republican leader and definitely not a man of few words.

Said Dirksen: "I have always gone on the theory that no political party is ever defeated by another—it defeats itself. And that is what I think is happening. Lyndon has exceptional skill but there is always a first time."

While this was hardly profound political philosophy, Dirksen, as a Republican, could hardly have been expected to say less, which makes it easier for Johnson to take.

What isn't easy to take, since he is hypersensitive to public reactions to practically everything, is the accumulated mess he is wading through now and the unpredictability of things to come.

Perhaps the only break he has had so far, getting ready for 1968, is that the Republicans haven't yet come up with a towering presidential prospect who dominates the public imagination.

So, as of now, Johnson's political fate is in his own hands.

Vietnam, with no solution visible, was bad enough. It split American thinking. Everything about the war is intangible except him. As President he is the symbol of American involvement.

Therefore, he has become the target for the opponents' blame. Then the riots mushroomed. He can't be blamed for them directly but he is the symbol of American law and order and some of the public concern will be dumped on him.

Worst of all, from a political standpoint, is the fact the cost of the war forced him to ask for a tax increase which will affect nearly everybody, if Congress approves, and therefore create new antagonisms toward him.

Perhaps his most deadly political opponent—and maybe consciously—is Ho Chi Minh, Communist boss of North Vietnam, who has been at war 21 years, first against the French and now against the United States.

As leader of a pretty primitive society, it might have seemed reasonable to think he would have caved in when this country decided to make a real war of it and particularly when it began bombing the North.

He had one thing working for him and he made the most of it. This was his realization the United States would want to confine the war to the South rather than invading the North and thus risking war with Red China.

His reasoning after that seems clear. Since there was already dissension in America over the war, if the North kept fighting, the pressures at home, and even the election's political necessities, might induce Johnson to seek a truce.

To help make the United States get tired fighting such a standstill war, Ho increased his forces as the United States poured in more men. But so far Johnson has shown no inclination to seek an easy way out.

The increased bombings in recent days may indicate the opposite. What Johnson may be seeking before election is not a truce but a victory.

Negroes Riot in House Gallery

By ROBERT A. HUNT
WASHINGTON (AP) — A group from New York's Harlem, invading the House galleries to protest noisily for a rat control proposal, led with Capitol police.

At least six persons or the injured in the disturbance on Monday, which erupted shortly after the House adjourned for a session.

The group entered the House galleries and—as a result—invading House members fled the floor—began shouting protests against House action last month in killing the administration's antiriot bill.

But police stepped in quickly and broke up the chanting, clapping demonstration by the predominantly Negro group amid screams, curses and flying fists.

There were reports that at least four New Yorkers and two policemen suffered minor injuries during the incident, which lasted less than an hour.

Eight of the estimated 95 demonstrators were arrested, charged with disorderly conduct and released after posting $10 bond.

"Rats cause riots," the group chanted while sitting in the gallery. "We don't need a riot."

The Problems of a New Office Boy Are Many—Here Are Just a Few

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that an office boy gets tired of hearing:

"When I was your age, kid, I was glad to work for nothing a week just to get the experience."

"I don't know how you ever expect to be head of the firm, Bascomb, if you can't even go to the delicatessen and bring back what I ordered. I told you to get a ham on rye, and they put it on white bread."

"Yeah, the new kid looks okay, but so do most juvenile delinquents."

"Your problem, Bascomb, is that you're at that in-between age—too old for the chicken pox, too young to get ulcers."

"I don't know who his mother is, but judging from his haircut his father must be a sheepdog."

"Wake up, Bascomb, it's time for your afternoon coffee break."

"When I was your age, kid, I used to walk three miles a day to and from work just to save carfare."

"Last week, just as a joke, I told him to go out and get a left-handed monkey wrench, and not to come back until he found one. He was gone for three days."

"He spends more time looking at himself in the washroom mirror than he does working."

"How old did you say you were, young man—18? Well, if you keep your nose to the grindstone and stay out of trouble, you'll be eligible for a pension in the year 2014."

Despite Cost-Cutting Order by LBJ, U.S. Employing More

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP) — The rising number of federal civilian employees probably will pass 3 million this month despite cost-cutting orders issued by President Johnson.

Executive branch employment totaled 2,980,156 in June, according to the Congressional Joint Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures.

That represents a rise of nearly 500,000 employees since Johnson took office in November 1963, and is the highest on record except for during and just after World War II.

Some of the June rise was seasonal and temporary. The joint committee noted about half the 74,911 increase over May resulted from temporary summer jobs under the President's Youth Opportunity program. There also were seasonal hiring rises at the Interior, Agriculture and Post Office departments.

Administration officials conceded privately there is little possibility of any significant job cutback even though Johnson has announced efforts to curtail spending by as much as $4 billion under the "cut, tax and borrow" program he sent Congress last week.

The outlook is for rising employment, officials said, because only a relatively small portion of federal spending is

"controllable" by the administration and because Johnson will not cut antipoverty programs, controllable or not.

Summer jobs for slum dwellers, youth activities, work-training programs and other efforts to alleviate poverty are viewed officially as top-priority measures this summer because of racial tensions in the cities.

The civilian pay roll topped $20 billion in the fiscal year ended June 30. The congressional joint committee reported that civilian agency wages and salaries totaled $11.8 billion while the Defense Department paid out $8.6 billion to its civilian workers, for a total of $20.4 billion.

The Jordanian government is putting pressure on Arab refugees to return to their homes in Israeli-occupied territory so Jordan's shaky economy won't be burdened with them.

King Hussein's government declared it was the "national and sacred duty" of refugees from the June war to return "to prevent the enemy from settling on our land and bringing in immigrants."

The Jordanian refugee committee warned that it would cut off aid to any refugee who was given permission by Israel to return home but refused.

The announcement followed agreement between Jordanian and Israeli authorities on repatriation application forms for Arabs who fled from western Jordan after the Israeli army occupied it. All refugees wishing to return must cross the Jordan River by the end of August, but officials said the deadline might be extended.

An estimated 260,000 Arabs fled to eastern Jordan, posing a serious threat to the Jordanian economy. Many have been reported unwilling to return while their homeland is occupied by the Israelis.

Life meanwhile returned to Jordan. The Jordanian government is putting pressure on Arab refugees to return to their homes in Israeli-occupied territory so Jordan's shaky economy won't be burdened with them.

More Arrests in Detroit Riot Slayings

DETROIT (AP) — Officials say more arrests are likely in the case of two white Detroit policemen charged with murdering two Negro teenagers in a motel at the peak of the city's riot.

Prosecutor William Cahalan of Wayne County said he expects more warrants to be issued in connection with the shotgun killings, "but not murder warrants." He indicated conspiracy charges might be filed against some of those present when the shootings occurred.

The patrolmen, Ronald August, 28, and Robert Paille, 32, pleaded innocent at their arraignments Monday. They were jailed without bond.

August is accused of killing Aubrey Pollard, 19. Paille is charged with killing Fred Temple, 18.

A number of witnesses have said the youths were slain during an early morning raid by police and National Guardsmen searching for snipers at the Algiers Motel in downtown Detroit on July 26, three days after rioting began.

A third Negro, Carl Cooper, 17, also was found killed by blasts from a 12-gauge shotgun in the motel.

But Cahalan said he lacked evidence on claims that Cooper may have been shot by a uniformed man.

In other developments Monday growing out of the riots: The National Guard issued a statement defending its actions in the machine-gun death of a 4-year-old Negro girl.

The county prosecutor's office charged two Negro youths with murder in the shooting death of a white Detroit patrolman.

John Ashby, 24, a fireman who died Friday of injuries sustained while fighting a blaze during the riots, was buried with honors.

Cahalan said he recommended the warrants against August and Paille as the result of statements from 80 persons and a 30-page report compiled by an 18-man Detroit police homicide bureau team.

Cahalan refused to reveal See MORE ARRESTS On Page 2

WR Outlines Proposals Briefly

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller outlined briefly Monday night the legislative program he intends to bring before the General Assembly when it calls its special session in January.

His main objectives will be constitutional revision, correction of governmental deficiencies and prison reform, he said.

Rockefeller, on another of his "non-political" regional tours, spoke to about 50 persons at Southwest Junior High School here.

The bulk of his speech was devoted to a defense of his present policies and programs and a plea for a second term.

"I may not be the best governor you've ever had, but I'll be the best informed . . . he said. "If I can serve you two terms, not one, we'll have time to put together ways to remove the inconsistencies (in state government)."

Rockefeller said Arkansas needed people who were "establishing objectives way, way down the road—10 years off."

"I have been criticized because I have occasionally gone outside the state to obtain new ideas, new people," Rockefeller said. "Where our people come from doesn't matter. What we want is excellence. That's why we must go out and find the best people to help us build."

$1 Billion Asked for Grants to Areas to Prevent Race Rioting

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Abraham A. Ribicoff and Charles H. Percy proposed today a $1 billion riot-prevention fund and wide flexibility for the President in spending it.

The Senators said the bill would require no new appropriations or additional spending. It would authorize the President to transfer up to two per cent of budgeted, nondefense spending into a neighborhood emergency fund.

Percy, R-Ill., and Ribicoff, D-Conn., said the President then could make grants to states, communities and nonprofit organizations for local efforts aimed at easing urban tensions and promoting orderly community growth.

The fund would differ from existing urban-aid programs, the senators said, in giving the President the ability to act quickly and with flexibility in response to local initiatives.

Emphasis would be put, said Ribicoff and Percy, on the concerted use of private industry and capital, civic groups and existing federal, state and local government programs.

The senators said top priority should be given to the creation of jobs, better housing and improved law enforcement.

Meanwhile Senate riot investigators appeared divided over the course of their probe, which has centered thus far on policemen, racial agitation and the federal antipoverty program.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., says testimony developed to date by the Senate Judiciary Committee's hearings convinces him there's a need to see whether government money supports "organizations that are responsible, directly or indirectly, for these riots."

But Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., are pressing for a broadened investigation to cover social and economic factors they contend lie behind urban rioting.

"We're not solving the problem just by getting bigger night sticks and faster shooting riot guns," Hart told a Newark, N.J., turnkey Monday. "You appear to be preoccupied with repressive measures."

The policeman was Leonard F. Kowalewski, president of New Jersey's Fraternal Order of Police, which he said has 2,000 members.

Kowalewski insisted that people connected with the antipoverty program in Newark were involved in racial demonstrations which created the climate for five days of deadly rioting.

He spent well over three hours on the witness stand, repeatedly naming the United Community Corp., Newark's antipoverty agency, as a source of racial unrest.

When Kennedy demanded documentation for the charges, Kowalewski replied: "My knowledge of the UCC has been limited to seeing these people picket and demonstrate."

116 Enemy Killed by Green Berets

SAIGON (AP) — American Green Berets and South Vietnamese irregulars believed outnumbered 4 to 1 counted 116 enemy dead today after repelling a North Vietnamese mortar and ground attack on a U.S. Special Forces camp near the Cambodian border.

Casualties among the 500 defenders and their families at Tong Le Chou were termed moderate, meaning they were hit hard. It was not known if any of the dozen or so American advisers were casualties.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said the 165th North Vietnamese Regiment, believed to number some 2,000 men, attacked the camp 54 miles northwest of Saigon early Monday and fighting raged for many hours.

In the air war, 167 missions were flown against North Vietnam Monday, including an attack on the repeatedly hit Loi Dong storage area four miles northwest of the port of Haiphong. But bad weather limited most of the attacks to the southern Panhandle.

Another F4C Phantom jet was brought down by ground fire in the Panhandle, and both crewmen were missing. It was the 638th U.S. combat plane reported lost over North Vietnam and the 38th in the past month.

Heavy automatic weapons fire by the Viet Cong brought down five helicopters near Saigon Monday. One crashed and burned, but the other four were able to limp away from the ambush and were reported repairable.

Brig. Gen. John F. Freund was wounded in the lower right leg when he ordered his own chopper down to rescue troops from one of the downed copters. The 49-year-old commander of the 199th Light Infantry Brigade was directing an assault by U.S. and South Vietnamese troops seven miles north of the capital.

Freund, a native of New York City whose family now lives in Vienna, Va., was taken to the Army's 3rd Field Hospital in Saigon and was expected to be laid up two or three weeks.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in South Vietnam, presented Freund with his first Purple Heart in 27 years of Army service. Freund and his aide, a lieutenant, were the only ones wounded as their helicopter tried to pick up two U.S. soldiers. Ground troops later made the rescue.

Freund said the stepup in guerrilla attacks close to Saigon apparently is aimed at disrupting the Sept. 3 presidential election.

First Year Students Must Have Shots

James H. Jones, Superintendent of Schools, announced that Act 244 requiring all children to be immunized against polio, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, and measles became law on July 1, 1967.

SECTION 1 of the act is stated as follows: No child shall be admitted to a public or private school of this State who has not been immunized from poliomyelitis, diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis, and red (rubella) measles, as evidenced by a certificate of a licensed physician, or a public health department, acknowledging same.

(Pertussis (whooping cough) not to be given to children over six (6) years of age.)

Smallpox vaccination and a birth certificate is also required for all students entering first grade.

Forms to record immunizations will be in all doctor's offices, hospitals and the county health unit.

Family physicians or county health unit will advise parents on all immunizations. The school will follow the advice of doctors and the county health organization.

Parents are urged to confer with the family physician or county health unit about the above regulations before the opening of school. It will save time, inconvenience, and delay on entering children in school.
